A Tapestry of History and Beauty

Soulfire The Plantation Colette Lacompte is a breathtaking estate nestled amidst the serene landscapes of the Lowcountry in South Carolina. With its rich history dating back to the 18th century, this enchanting property has been meticulously restored to its former glory, blending the charm of the past with modern-day amenities.

As you step onto the plantation grounds, you are greeted by a majestic avenue of live oaks, their stately branches draped in Spanish moss, casting an ethereal glow upon the surroundings. The main house, a testament to antebellum architecture, exudes an aura of elegance and grandeur, with its white facade, wraparound veranda, and meticulously manicured gardens.

Gardens of Enchantment

One of the highlights of Soulfire The Plantation Colette Lacompte is its stunning gardens. Spanning over 10 acres, these enchanted landscapes are a testament to the passion and artistry of Colette Lacompte, a renowned gardener and the former owner of the estate.

As you wander through the gardens, you will be captivated by a symphony of colors and textures. The formal Rose Garden, adorned with an array of vibrant blooms, offers a feast for the senses. The Secret Garden, hidden away from the bustling world, provides a tranquil sanctuary for contemplation and reflection. And the Vegetable Garden, bursting with fresh produce, showcases the bounty of the Lowcountry soil.

Nature's Embrace

Beyond the manicured gardens, Soulfire The Plantation Colette Lacompte offers a glimpse into the unspoiled beauty of the Lowcountry. The property is nestled alongside a tranquil lake, where you can cast a line and enjoy some fishing. Nature trails wind through the estate, inviting you to explore its diverse flora and fauna.

Whether you are seeking solitude in nature, birdwatching in the whispering woods, or simply soaking up the breathtaking views, Soulfire The Plantation Colette Lacompte offers a sanctuary of peace and serenity.
