History of the Hymnal 1982

The Hymnal 1982 was the result of a long process of planning and development. The first steps toward the creation of a new hymnal were taken in the early 1970s. At that time, the Hymn Society of America (HSA) began to work on a new hymnal that would be more inclusive than the existing hymnals. The HSA wanted to create a hymnal that would include hymns from a wider variety of Christian traditions and that would reflect the changing needs of the church.

In 1978, the HSA formed a Joint Commission on the Hymnal to oversee the creation of the new hymnal. The commission was made up of musicians, theologians, and pastors from a variety of Christian denominations. The commission's goal was to create a hymnal that would be both musically and theologically sound. The commission also wanted to create a hymnal that would be accessible to people of all ages and backgrounds.

The commission spent several years working on the new hymnal. They carefully selected hymns from a wide variety of sources, including traditional hymns, contemporary worship songs, and hymns from other cultures. The commission also worked to create new hymns that would reflect the changing needs of the church.

The Hymnal 1982 was finally published in 1982. It was an immediate success, and it quickly became one of the most popular hymnals in use today. The hymnal has been used by churches of all denominations, and it has helped to shape the way that Christians worship.
